John,

Caren is on vacation this week but I have just spoken to her and she advised we are willing to consent to an extension of time for you to file your reply brief, up to and including January 7, 2021.

Kind regards,
Kendl

Caren & Ron:

I have received your initial brief in this matter. It appears that my reply brief, which I wish to file, will be due on December 28, 2020. I am leaving for Christmas vacation tomorrow morning, and plan to be out of state and out of the office until my return on December 31, 2020. Would you be willing to consent to an extension of time for me to file a reply brief, which would make it due on January 7, 2021, which will give me 7 days to file it after my return, instead of the normal 10 days?

Sincerely,
John R. Cantrell, Jr.
