ORDER
FORECLOSURE

On May 22, 2018, in The Court of Common Pleas, a hearing was held before The Honorable Thomas E Player Jr., Special Referee. The decision handed down was Foreclosure.

Felicia D. Ruff

Testimony

---

It is the testimony of Felicia Ruff, Appellant, that the property in question, has been paid for. It is the testimony of Felicia Ruff, Appellant, that upon filing for bankruptcy in 2013, there was a remaining balance of $10k, from the agreed sale price of $18k. It is the testimony of Felicia Ruff, Appellant, that during the one year of bankruptcy payments, the Respondent received a total of $7,500 (Respondent admitted). This would leave a remaining balance of $2.5k. It is the testimony of Felicia Ruff, Appellant, that continued payments were made from April to August of 2016, in the amounts of $350 each, were made to Respondent (totaling $1,750). The Appellant also declares two more payments of $380 each (cashier's checks). With proof of payment, it is the testimony of Felicia Ruff, Appellant, that the asking price for 1455 Hidden Oaks Drive, had been met. At this point, the Appellant requested the Respondent agree to arrange a closing. The Respondent received a hand written break down of payments made and a second request was made. Respondent refused. So the question is, how does one obtain a Foreclosure decision on a house that has been paid for? It is the Appellant's testimony that fraud was committed by the Respondent. Information was withheld that would have changed the dynamics of the decision handed down on May 22, 2018.
