This letter is about the Appellate Case number 2017-002632 for Travis Lamont Hines. The appeals process was initiated on December 29, 2017, with the notice of appeal. I write this letter as a concerned family member that is looking for assistance and guidance. At this time, I do not quite understand if there is a timeframe or order as it pertains to the appellate cases after an oral argument has been held. The oral argument for this case was held on April 13, 2021, and his case is listed as decision-pending.

I cannot begin to imagine the amount of research, time and work that is dedicated to each case that is currently being reviewed or has been reviewed within the South Carolina Court of Appeals. Please know this is no way an attempt to undermine the process; but rather an attempt to gain a better understanding how the cases are reviewed and decided. I personally am truly grateful for the services and dedication provided by the officials with the South Carolina Court of Appeals. Any assistance you can provide is greatly appreciated.
