Ms. Linder?

MS. LINDER: Yes, Judge.

MR. KOZELSKI: Thank you, Your Honor. And I will try not to belabor the point here.

THE COURT: Take as long as you want.

MR. KOZELSKI: I know you have sat through two trials involving Mr. Johnson and, all be it, through two different defense attorneys giving you two different --

THE COURT: Theories.

MR. KOZELSKI: -- theories of the defense. But -- and also two different solicitors, but I think very, very much the same theories of prosecution coming from both solicitors, Mr. Simpson and Ms. Linder.

The basis of our motion for a new trial, Your Honor, I think the crux -- the main issue that I think we are raising before the Court and what we briefed in our memo, Court's Exhibit 1, is the issue of the accomplice liability charge.

I think that -- that it was not warranted in this case, solely based on the fact that the Solicitor's argument in both the first trial and the second trial and the third trial has been that Mr. Johnson was the shooter. I think that was very evident throughout the trial.

And I think it came to a climax in their closing statement when they put forth the little puzzle pieces that they said they had proven to the jury throughout the trial that came to -- came together to fit Mr. Johnson's booking photo. I don't think throughout any part of the trial they put forth that anybody else was the shooter.

And I didn't make the new trial motion at the end of the trial because I wanted to go find the case law. And I think I did run upon a case that is sort of directly on point with this and that is Wiles v. State.

And it is a PCR case, Your Honor, but it's a PCR case because the appellate counsel did not raise the issue of the failing to argue the accomplice liability, whether or not it should have been charged.

But I think the facts of that case are very similar. It was an armed robbery turned into a murder and in which there were multiple co-defendants -- multiple co-defendants testified. They testified that Wiles was the shooter. Everything -- all of the evidence pointed to Wiles being the shooter. The State proceeded as Wiles being the shooter.

But much like Mr. Johnson's first trial, the jury went back in deliberation, came back with a note that said if we find Mr. Wiles guilty of murder, does that mean that we are finding he is the shooter? And at that point, the judge decided to give the hand of one, hand of all charge.

The attorney in that objected and they asked for mere presence. The didn't get it. And shortly thereafter, they did find Mr. Miles guilty of murder.

The Supreme Court, in viewing this as a PCR action, said that the appellate counsel should have raised that issue in particular because there was no evidence to support that the co-defendants were shooters. There was no evidence put forth, but the State had presented the case that Wiles alone was the shooter.

And they go on to say that an alternate theory of liability, such as accomplice liability, may not be charged merely on the theory that the jury may believe some evidence and disbelieve other evidence.

And I think that is the quandary that the jury found themselves in in this case, is that they were forced to, I guess, have a process of elimination in saying, well, we don't think Mr. Johnson is the shooter. And I think that's clear from the verdict of the not guilty on the possession of a weapon during the commission of a violent crime.

They were saying, well, if he's not the shooter, then somebody else had to be the shooter. And by a process of elimination, they would have to put that person next to him, but there has been no evidence to suggest that this person was a co-conspirator.

I think, in fact, the opposite. I think the evidence suggested at trial -- when I asked that question of Detective Osborne up on the stand, I said, if you ever find out who Creep is, you're going to serve a murder warrant on him, right?

And he said, actually, no, because he's the passenger. And as the passenger, we would want to find out what his involvement is before we brought charges.

So the testimony -- the only testimony that they presented about the passenger, who a/k/a

Creep, was that they didn't know his involvement; but, instead, they wanted to impugn guilt upon this passenger or have the jury believe that this passenger was guilty of something in order to raise the accomplice liability.

And I don't think that that's how this works, and I don't believe that they presented any evidence other than Mr. Johnson being the shooter that would warrant anything that hand of one hand of all charge.

And I understand your argument in the first trial and wanting to give deference sort of to that first jury for asking that question and believing that they could find him guilty of something or being involved in something, but I think that the standard is, as I just read, not disbelieving or believing some evidence but whether there is evidence put forth.

And I don't believe that the State has met any -- any evidentiary standard or has put forth any evidence to suggest that the person that Mr. Johnson was with was conspiring, that they had some sort of agreement and was involved in the shooting.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

Ms. Linder.

MS. LINDER: Thank you, Your Honor. May it please the Court.

I'd like to address a couple things that Mr. Kozelski brought up in his argument and also in his motion. First, I'd like to clarify that in going forth, and since indeed this was the third time this case was being trialed, I can say that I made a very specific point to not say that Mr. Johnson was the shooter because I think there were questions about that.

I think that, as Mr. Kozelski pointed out, of course the defendant had the motive, the access, he set up, he drove there; he was involved with everything.

But I think something that is important to remember is that he was recruiting for assistance. He wasn't asking somebody, hey, what's up? What are you up to later?

When he wasn't getting responses with those innocuous text messages, he got pretty darned specific as far as what the plans were. And, ultimately, he was -- he came with another person.

I don't know why he wanted another person there. Maybe he -- that person provided the gun, because the gun was not found at Mr. Johnson's residence. The gun was not found anywhere.

Perhaps he needed a cheerleader because, as was brought up by the defense, was that he was a nonviolent person, he had a nonviolent history and things of that nature.

Perhaps he didn't want to, you know, kill his sister's boyfriend on the doorstep. You know, all of those are reasons that potentially motivated him to send those text messages to try to recruit people.

Also, as far as the indication that Mr. Kozelski gave from Osborne's testimony about saying he would not have charged Creep without talking to him, I think it's important because we don't know if that was Creep in the car.

You know, the defendant didn't say that in the original statement. He said that -- he said that later on. And the information he gave -- and I think this is part of why there was hesitation on Osborne's part -- in the defendant's statement, he said that Creep was the person with him and he described Creep, where he hung out in Summerville, that's his best friend in Summerville, and his tattoo. And he also had a phone number.

Osborne contacted the phone number; that person wouldn't talk to him. Went to the bar, figured out from the locals who his friend was, found somebody who went by the name Creep, but missed that very large tattoo.

And while standing with that individual, apparently another individual called Creep, Osborne called -- he testified he had called that number, also provided by the defendant, and it didn't ring to the pocket of the person he was talking to. It rang to somebody else who, again, refused to talk to him.

So I think from there -- I think that's Osborne trying to do his job as law enforcement, and the defendant had shown that he wasn't being completely forthright in this matter; and, furthermore, he went down that path of the information the defendant had given and it did not lead definitively to one person.

So there's nothing to say that this Creep person is actually the individual that was in the car.

I think this is different from the Wiles case that Mr. Kozelski noted because in that case, all the friends were walking down the street and then it said that, unexpectedly, Wiles pulled out a gun and shot.

And so no question he unexpectedly pulled it out because all those people testified. He was the one who had the gun. He was the one who shot the gun. So I agree that in that case, it pointed towards him as the actual shooter. And I think we are missing that in this case, which is how I think this case is distinguished, and I believe Your Honor correctly charged with the hand of one accomplice liability in this case.

THE COURT: Okay. Reply?

MR. KOZELSKI: Well, Your Honor, that's exactly the point, they don't know who this other person is. And in order to get a hand of one hand of all charge, they have to prove that Mr. Johnson and this unidentified co-conspirator acted together --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. KOZELSKI: -- in order to accomplish what they came there to accomplish. And I don't think that there is any evidence to say that this person was a co-conspirator, that he was involved in any way, other than him being merely present.

And, essentially, what they are asking to do and what the jury's verdict essentially says is that this person that is next to him is guilty of murder. He's guilty of murder and, therefore, Mr. Johnson is guilty of murder under the hand of one hand of all.

And I don't think in any courtroom in America would that person who was sitting next to Mr. Johnson be convicted of murder based on what the Solicitor's testimony or what the Solicitor's evidence put forth.

And that's, essentially, my argument in a nutshell. You can't convict the man next to him of murder when you don't know anything about him and you don't present any evidence for him; therefore, you can't fit the charge to convict Mr. Johnson.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, there's no question -- finished?

MR. KOZELSKI: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: There's no question it was murder, correct?

MR. KOZELSKI: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: And because I tried several of them, this is the one where we had the video, correct?

MR. KOZELSKI: Yes.

THE COURT: Getting out of the car, walking -- walking towards and then running, then two people run back, jump in the car. No question about that.

No question we have a text that -- and you argued about what that text meant. And there's a text attributed to Mr. Johnson. It could have been construed as, I'm going to kill this guy. I understand you differ with that, but that's one construction of it.

And listen, I, frankly, like your argument as a defense lawyer, I think it's great, but one thing I've learned over my career from what I've read, number one, from being reversed, and number two, that you have to understand something.

The first death penalty case I tried, one of the mistakes that the State made, in my opinion, was they tried him for murder, armed, robbery, conspiracy, because they conspired. And we all know that there's a part of the conspiracy charge that is contrary to the felony charges, because conspiracy said if you at any time -- and if a conspirator breaks with the conspiracy, no longer liable for conspiracy.

Well, that charge came back, the two, no question. And he testified, I went to rob her. I didn't know -- there wasn't any -- there wasn't intent. I didn't intend to kill her. But they carried guns.

And the problem that we had was they acquitted him of all of it because of the charge. That case we had the mistrial, I would have loved to have seen what the Court would have done with that.

But over the years, one of the things that we are instructed, and I believe this to be the case, and this is a great case for it given the Wiles -- glad to know that Wiles, the judge in that case tried to do something that I tried to do too, but they didn't bother to address that this time of correcting the -- or giving additional instruction.

But probably the case that causes me the greatest -- probably weighs as heavily as any that I've had as to why I should have tried -- charged the hand of one the hand of all because you're right, we don't know who the shooter was.

We know that two people -- and we don't know -- we don't know whether those two people shot.

The question is, we had two people walking in. We had all this other circumstantial evidence, and then two people running away shortly after. I don't disagree with you that not only do we not know whether the passenger -- we don't know whether technically Mr. Johnson did it.

Clearly, though, there was discussion and the jury made a decision. I don't quarrel with your decision about it because that's what I instructed them. They had to find that he was the shooter in order to convict him of having the possession of the firearm.

That doesn't mean that he didn't have it. That just means they didn't believe -- they couldn't believe that beyond a reasonable doubt. I mean, because we know it's not a probability, so there's no evidence of actually beyond a reasonable doubt evidence that who -- which one was the shooter.

So I thought that was a pretty fair verdict. And I think if we tried the passenger, probably get the same -- or we should get it.

But there's no question that the evidence, both the direct evidence, considering the proximity of the shooting, how quickly they left, they were running back, they took off, which, again, we all know is circumstantial evidence of guilt when you're running. So that's another factor.

But it's certainly much stronger than the case that I will always remember that caused me to do something that I tried to honor since then, especially in death penalties cases because I tried several after that, and it's Cottrell -- the State v. Cottrell.

But he's had about three times to the Supreme Court, so it's the one I tried where -- I wrestled -- spent a weekend studying about how much evidence can you come out in the second phase about bad conduct, because they actually proved three separate murders in addition to the murder that he was on trial for shooting a police officer in the face. And the Court reversed me because the defendant asked for voluntary manslaughter.

Now, please understand, this is the setting. These people -- there are two people on the way to kill somebody. Cottrell's got a .44 stuck in his waistband. He's got a .357 loaded with hollow points in his back, and he's got clips.

The officer recognized him and thought that he knew he had charged -- he had written a ticket several -- a month or so before. And he said, I didn't see you at plea court. Did you pay the ticket?

And Cottrell said yes.

But -- and it was a total of 45 seconds. The reason I know that, he had called in for any wants and warrants on his mic, and 45 seconds later, his buddy who was with him, another officer who was in a shootout now with this guy who -- the defendant, across his car in a parking lot said, officer down.

The Court said because he touched him on the shoulder, he restricted his movement and that would be sufficient provocation to shoot the officer in the face and, therefore, I should have tried -- I should have charged voluntary manslaughter.

I refused to charge it because I thought it was ridiculous. Today, I still think it's ridiculous, but that's what the Court said.

So you know what? But -- and why? Maybe because there's some evidence of it. I don't know. But this is a time when, okay, I'm going to frame the issue for them.

Please tell me how there isn't some evidence of a shooter and this man being a shooter and being involved in a plan to go kill somebody. There's an abundance of evidence of that and he's dead, but if they say that that isn't sufficient for the hand of one and hand of all, then I would like for them to also address Cottrell again, because there's certainly a lot more evidence than what was in Cottrell about voluntary manslaughter.

Your motion is respectfully denied.

Thank you, sir.

MR. KOZELSKI: Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. LINDER: Thank you, Judge.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA COUNTY OF CHARLESTON STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA vs. DEVIN JOHNSON, Defendant	IN THE COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS FOR THE NINTH JUDCICIAL CIRCUIT Case No: 2018GS1006264 Warrant No(s): M640238; M640239 Charge(s): Murder; Poss. of a Weapon During the Commission of a Violent Crime MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF DEFENSE'S MOTION TO SUPPRESS (Defendant's Statements)

I. FACTS[1]

On June 8, 2011, Akeem Smalls was found shot near the Georgetown Apartments in West Ashley. He died soon thereafter. Authorities developed the Defendant as a suspect and then charged him with murder on June 11, 2011. David Osborne, a former Charleston Police Officer, interrogated Defendant on June 10, 2011. This five-hour interrogation began with Osborne requesting a buccal swab from Defendant pursuant to a search warrant, which was provided to Defendant for review. Defendant's Interrogation at 21:03. Immediately before and after Osborne swabbed Defendant's mouth, Defendant asked Osborne if he could have a cigarette. Initially, Osborne responded that he might be able to work that out. Defendant's Interrogation at 21:05-21:06.

Shortly thereafter, an officer read the arrest warrants and left Defendant with the paperwork. Defendant's Interrogation at 21:08-21:12. Then, Osborne requested Defendant's clothes and provided him with jail clothing to wear. Defendant asked for water and a cigarette.

[1] These facts are drawn from discovery material provided to the Defense by the State.

Osborne agreed, but provided neither. Defendant's Interrogation at 21:13-21:14. A little while later, Osborne advised Defendant of his rights pursuant to Miranda v. Arizona, 384 U.S. 436 (1966). Defendant's Interrogation at 21:19. Although Defendant indicated he understood his rights, there was no request by Osborne that Defendant waive those rights. Defendant's Interrogation at 21:19. Initially, Defendant maintained that he was at home in Orangeburg on June 8, 2011. Defendant's Interrogation at 21:21-21:44.

Forty-five minutes into the interrogation, Osborne became exasperated and aggressive. Defendant's Interrogation at 21:45. When Defendant requested a cigarette an hour into the interview, Osborne informed him that individuals who cooperate get cigarettes, and individuals who fail to cooperate go to prison. Defendant's Interrogation at 22:12; see also Defendant's Interrogation at 23:46 (Osborne told Defendant that if he cooperated, he would get a cigarette, but if he failed to cooperate, he would not). At another point when Defendant requested a cigarette, Osborne refused, stating that a cigarette would not change the trouble he was in. Defendant's Interrogation at 22:29-22:30. An hour later, Defendant begged for a cigarette, comparing his nicotine habit to a heroin addict. At this, Osborne responded that if Defendant told what happened, they would walk outside and have a cigarette. Defendant's Interrogation at 23:20-23:21. Within minutes, Defendant asked for a cigarette again. Osborne responded, "We are not going to have a cigarette until we get a truthful story out of you." Defendant's Interrogation at 23:24. Three hours into the interrogation, Defendant remained steadfast that he was in Orangeburg and had requested a cigarette multiple times. Defendant's Interrogation at 22:05; 22:12; 22:29; 23:20; 23:24; 23:46.

Osborne decided to try a new interrogation strategy - allowing Defendant to contact his mother and girlfriend using Osborne's phone. Defendant's Interrogation at 00:20. Thereafter, approximately four hours into the interrogation, Defendant stated he was at Georgetown Apartments, but denied he was involved in the shooting death of Smalls.

II. ARGUMENT

The Court should exclude Defendant's statement to a police officer where the statement was not knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily given in light of the totality of the circumstances. In this case, during a five-hour interrogation, the officer repeatedly refused Defendant an opportunity to smoke a cigarette, the officer stated that cigarettes were for cooperators, and the officer stated that non-cooperators got prison, not cigarettes.

In Jackson v. Denno, 378 U.S. 368, 376 (1964), the United States Supreme Court held that "a defendant in a criminal case is deprived of due process of law if his conviction is founded, in whole or in part, upon an involuntary confession, without regard for the truth or falsity of the confession." To introduce a statement produced during custodial interrogation, the prosecution must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the statement was made freely and voluntarily, and taken in compliance with Miranda v. Arizona, 384 U.S. 426 (1966). State v. Von Dohlen, 322 S.C. 234, 243, 471 S.E.2d 689, 694 (1996); State v. Goodwin, 384 S.C. 588, 601, 683 S.E.2d 500, 507 (Ct. App. 2009); State v. Miller, 375 S.C. 370, 378, 652 S.E.2d 444, 448 (Ct. App. 2007); State v. Compton, 366 S.C. 671, 680, 623 S.E.2d 661, 666 (Ct. App. 2005); State v. Crawley, 349 S.C. 459, 463, 562 S.E.2d 683, 685 (Ct. App. 2002). The waiver has two distinct dimensions. It must be "voluntary in the sense that it was the product of a free and deliberate choice rather than intimidation, coercion, or deception," and it must be "made with a full awareness of both the nature of the right being abandoned and the consequences of the decision to abandon it." Moran v. Burbine, 475 U.S; 412, 421 (1986); see also State v. Middleton, 288 S.C. 21, 25, 339 S.E.2d 692, 694 (1986). It is not enough that the interrogator advised the suspect of his rights and the suspect made an uncoerced statement. The prosecution must show that the accused understood the rights. Berghuis v. Thompkins, 560 U.S. 370, 384 (2010) (citing Colorado v. Spring, 479 U.S. 564, 573-575 (1987); Connecticut v. Barrett, 479 U.S. 523, 530 (1987)).

In South Carolina, a court must examine the totality of the circumstances surrounding the custodial statement. The examining court must answer the question: did totality of the circumstances surrounding the custodial statement defeat the defendant's will? State v. Moses, 390 S.C. 502, 513, 702 S.E.2d 395,401 (Ct. App. 2010). Courts have recognized appropriate factors that may be considered in a totality of the circumstances analysis: background; experience; conduct of the accused; age; maturity; physical condition and mental health; length of custody or detention; police misrepresentations; isolation of a minor from his or her parent; the lack of any advice, to the accused of his constitutional rights; threats of violence; direct or indirect promises, however slight; lack of education or low intelligence; repeated and prolonged nature of the questioning; exertion of improper influence; and the use of physical punishment, such as the deprivation of food or sleep. Id. at 513-514, 702 S.E.2d at 401 (internal citations omitted).

The test requires consideration of "'totality of all the surrounding circumstances - both the characteristics of the accused and the details of the interrogation.'" Dickerson v. United States, 530 U.S. 428, 434 (2000) (citations omitted). "A statement may not be 'extracted by any sort of threats or violence, [or] obtained by any direct or implied promises, however slight, [or] obtained by the exertion of improper influence.'" State v. Miller, 375 S.C. 370, 386, 652 S.E.2d 444, 452 (Ct. App. 2007) (quoting State v. Rochester, 301 S.C. 196, 200, 391 S.E.2d 244, 247 (1990)). The Supreme Courts of South Dakota and New Jersey have both recognized cigarette breaks as an element indicating lack of coercion under the totality of the circumstances. See

State v. Owens, 643 N.W.2d 735, 750-751 (S.D. 2002); State v. Cook, 847 A.2d 530, 547-548 '(N.J. 2004).

Defendant's statement was the product of coercive police practices and should be excluded. The interrogation occurred over a five-hour period - lengthy by any standard. The interrogation occurred during the evening hours, not beginning until 9 p.m. and not ending until after one in the morning on the following day. Defendant was exhausted physically and mentally as evidenced by his placing his head on the table. Defendant had limited involvement with law enforcement. Osborne was well aware of this fact and brought it to Defendant's attention repeatedly as he tried to "advise" Defendant on the best way to negotiate through the system. Defendant's Interrogation at 21 :36; 21 :44; 21:57; 22:02; 22:08; 22:38; 22:41; 22:46 ("You are ignorant to the system."); 22:54; 23:06; 23:16; 23:21; 23:36; 23:50. The detectives repeatedly used Defendant's six-year-old daughter as leverage to get Defendant to talk. For example, Kosarko told Defendant that if he persisted in "lying," then he would never see his daughter again. Defendant's Interrogation at 22:01; see also Defendant's Interrogation at 21 :35; 21 :46; 22:06; 22:30; 00:09.

Perhaps the most coercive tactic used by the police during the interrogation was the denial of cigarettes to Defendant despite his repeated requests and his admission of nicotine addiction. Not only did Osborne refuse to allow Defendant to smoke, Osborne used the request for a cigarette break as a bargaining chip when he told Defendant that he would get to smoke only if he cooperated and that if he failed to cooperate, he would go to prison. This was Osborne's most obvious coercive technique regarding cigarettes, but he continued with more subtle methods, such as when he told Defendant that if Defendant changed his story, he would say that Defendant "told the truth" and then the two of them "went out and smoked a cigarette."

Defendant's Interrogation at 23:21. Shortly thereafter, Defendant asked for a cigarette again, and Osborne continued to use the cigarette request and denial to coerce Defendant by stating Defendant would not get a cigarette until he gave "a truthful story." Defendant's Interrogation at 23:24.

Based on the totality of the circumstances, including the length of the interview, the time of the interview, Defendant's limited experience with criminal proceedings and Osborne's exploitation of this limited experience, Defendant's lack of sleep and obvious exhaustion, and Osborne's coercive behavior in response to Defendant's repeated requests for cigarettes, Defendant's statement was the product of police coercion and should be suppressed.

III. CONCLUSION

For all of the foregoing reasons, the Defendant moves that this Court suppress all Defendant statements obtained through coercive interrogation techniques.

Respectfully submitted,

I. FACTS

On June 8, 2011, Akeem Smalls was found by Officer Matthew Jahngen of the Charleston Police Department (CPD) near the Georgetown Apartments in West Ashley with a gunshot wound in his back. After expressing to Officer Jahngen where he believed he was shot and that he was having difficulties breathing, Smalls was taken to the emergency room where he died an hour later. At no point does Smalls ever tell Officer Jahngen who shot him during their interaction before EMS arrived. Authorities ultimately developed Devin Johnson as one of two suspects and charged him, along with Diangelo Bumcum, with Smalls' murder on June 11, 2011.

After his arrest, Johnson initially waived his rights and agreed to speak with detectives at CPD Headquarters. In the interrogation room, Johnson was questioned for several hours by David Osborne and Craig Kosarko, two veteran CPD detectives. Although Johnson began his interrogation by telling the detectives that he was in Orangeburg, South Carolina on June 8, Johnson ultimately revealed that he was at the Georgetown Apartments to pick up some clothing from his sister's apartment when he witnessed Diangelo Bumcum[1] shooting at Smalls. Bumcum, who was being questioned by the same detectives in an adjacent interrogation room, also denied involvement in the crime and testified at trial that he did not know who Johnson was.

Throughout the trial, the State presented one consistent story of the case – that Devin Johnson shot Smalls. The State claimed that Johnson had a motive to kill Smalls—a $400 debt; Johnson had the opportunity to kill Smalls; Johnson initially lied to the police about being at the Georgetown Apartments that night; Johnson attempted to recruit Terry Stevens[2] via text messages to help with the killing; Johnson attempted to cover up the killing; and Johnson's fingerprint was located on an unfired shell casing found in a bedside table of his sister's apartment a week after the shooting. During the State's closing, the prosecutor placed these individual claims on puzzle pieces within her PowerPoint, which when placed together formed Johnson's mugshot.

At no point during the trial did the State offer any evidence of who Johnson was with that night, except for the fact he was associated with Johnson, whom only knew him as "Creep." The State presented evidence of Creep being a passenger in Johnson's vehicle, but offered no evidence to show his involvement in the crime beyond being merely present at the scene. When pressed upon this issue on cross-examination, Detective Osborne, the lead case agent, testified that he would not have served a murder warrant on Creep because he was the passenger, and as the passenger, Osborne would want to speak to Creep to find out what he knew about the incident and how, if at all, he was involved. Even the prosecutor during her closing argument repeatedly stated the phrase "we don't know," when expressing any involvement of Creep or anyone else that could have been involved.

[2] Testimony at trial revealed that CPD detectives spoke to Terry Stevens shortly after the incident, reviewed his phone records, and eliminated him as the possible unknown individual.

In essence, the State asked the jury to engage in a process of elimination despite presenting no evidence that the perpetrator could be someone else. While the jury's verdict ultimately found Johnson not to be the shooter, they were inevitably confronted with a decision that, by all reasoning, would have convicted this unknown individual of murdering Smalls. The State effectively argued for the jury to infer that any association with Johnson while being present at the scene constitutes guilt, thus rendering a guilty verdict under the hand of one charge.

II. DISCUSSION

"'The law to be charged must be determined from the evidence presented at trial.'" State v. Ward, 374 S.C. 606, 614 (Ct. App. 2007)(quoting State v. Knoten, 347 S.C. 296, 302 (2001)). There must be some evidence in the record to support the charge to the jury. Id. "Under the 'hand of one is the hand of all' theory, one who joins with another to accomplish an illegal purpose is liable criminally from everything done by his confederate incidental to the execution of the common design and purpose." State v. Condrey, 349 S.C. 184, 194 (citing State v. Langley, 334 S.C. 643, 648 (1999)). According to the South Carolina Supreme Court, "one who joins with another to accomplish an illegal purpose is liable criminally for everything done by his confederate incidental to the execution of the common design and purpose." Langley, 334 S.C. at 648.

"Under accomplice liability theory, 'a person must personally commit the crime or be present at the scene of the crime and intentionally, or through a common design, aid, abet, or assist in the commission of that crime through some overt act.'" Id. at 648-649(quoting State v. Austin, 299 S.C. 456, 459 (1989)). Mere association with admitted members of a conspiracy or an admitted perpetrator of a crime is insufficient to constitute the guilt of the defendant on trial. See State v. Barroso, 328 S.C. 268 (1997); State v. Kelsey, 331 S.C. 50 (1998); State v. Sullivan, 277 S.C. 35 (1981); State v. Mouzon, 326 S.C. 191 (1997). Further, "[p]rior knowledge that a crime is going to be committed, without more, is not sufficient to make a person guilty of the crime." Wilson v. Wilson, 319 S.C. 370, 373 (1995); see also State v. Thompson, 347 S.C. 257 (Ct. App. 2007). "mere presence at the scene is not sufficient to establish guilt as an aider or abettor." State v. Mattison, 388 S.C. 469, 480 (2010)(quoting State v. Leonard, 292 S.C. 133, 137 (1987)). Rather, "presence at the scene of a crime by pre-arrangement to aid, encourage, or abet in the perpetration of the crime constitutes guilt as a principal." State v. Hill, 268 S.C. 390, 395-396 (1977).

In Barber v. State, 393 S.C. 232, 236 (2011), the Supreme Court examined the propriety of an accomplice liability charge. The Court explained that "an alternate theory of liability may only be charged when the evidence is equivocal on some integral fact and the jury has been presented with evidence upon which it could rely to find the existence or nonexistence of that fact." Id. Resolving the issue of whether the "hand of one" charge was correct, the Court asked whether there was any evidence that another co-conspirator was the shooter and the defendant was acting with him when the robbery took place. Id. at 237(citing State v. Dickerman, 341 S.C. 293 (2000); see also State v. Crowe, 258 S.C. 258 (1972). The evidence showed the robbers were clothed in black and wrapped shirts around their heads, that the defendant was involved in the planning and execution of the robbery, and that one of the robbers other than the defendant may have been the shooter. Id.

This Court concluded the trial judge correctly charged the jury concerning "the hand of one is the hand of all" where the evidence revealed the defendant and his co-defendant were with a large group of people during a confrontation, the co-defendant used language indicating the two were acting together, the defendant, and co-defendant go into a truck that chased after an individual in a car, and witnesses claimed the defendant shot his gun toward the car. State v. Ward, 374 S.C. 606, 614 (Ct. App. 2007). This evidence supported the theory that the defendant and his co-defendant joined together to accomplish an illegal purpose. Id.

Recently, this Court affirmed a grant of post-conviction relief where appellate counsel failed to raise on appeal the trial judge's error in instructing the jury on accomplice liability and mere presence where the evidence failed to support the charge. Wilds v. State, 407 S.C. 432, 435 (2014). On the afternoon of March 29, 1999, Wilds was walking down the street with two companions when they saw Rumph approaching them. Wilds commented to the others that he thought Rumph had some money. Id. Wilds stopped to talk to Rumph while his companions continued walking. Id. at 436. Wilds unexpectedly pulled out a pistol. Rumph handed over his wallet. Id. at 436. Wilds ordered his companions to hit Rumph and they complied. Wild's companions took items from Rumph, including a cigarette lighter and change. Wilds then shot Rumph. Id. After the shooting, Wilds and his companions ran. When they stopped, Wilds gave the companions money from Rumph's wallet and told them to stay quit. Id. One of the companions told Wilds to get rid of the gun. Id.

Wilds was charged with armed robbery and murder of Rumph. During the deliberations, the jury sent a note asking if the jury found Wilds guilty of murder, would that be finding that Wilds alone pulled the trigger. Id. at 437. Over Wilds' objection, the judge instructed the jury on accomplice liability, but refused to instruct the jury concerning mere presence. Id.

The Court explained that "no evidence ... indicated anyone other than Wilds was the shooter." Id. at 439. "The only evidence presented was that Wilds was the shooter, and [his companions] joined in the robbery after Wilds pulled the gun on Rumph." Id. This Court recognized that the jury may have had doubts about the companions' testimony; however, those doubts failed to support a charge on the alternate theory of liability, such as accomplice liability. An alternate theory "'may not be charged merely on the theory the jury may believe some of the evidence and disbelieve other evidence.'" Id. (quoting Barber, 393 S.C. at 236). The Court found prejudice to Wilds "[b]ecause the instruction was given in response to the jury's question regarding whether a conviction meant it found Wilds actually pulled the trigger, and because the jury returned guilty verdicts after receiving the instruction." Id. at 439.

In the present case, the prosecution presented no evidence to support an instruction to the jury concerning accomplice liability or "the hand of one is the hand of all." The only evidence presented by the State was that Johnson was the shooter. This was clearly evident from the State's closing argument that ended with little puzzle pieces coming together to form Johnson's booking photo. There was no evidence that the passenger in the car was the shooter or that Johnson and the passenger agreed upon some criminal enterprise prior to the shooting. In fact, the State's own witness and lead detective, David Osborne, testified that he would not even serve a murder warrant on the passenger, because as the passenger Osborne would want to talk to him to see what he knew and how he was involved.

The evidence was not equivocal on some integral fact as would be required in order to instruct the jury on accomplice liability. The only fact-pattern presented by the State was that Johnson and an unknown passenger arrived at the apartment complex, walked in the direction where the shooting occurred, Johnson shot Smalls due to a debt, then Johnson and the passenger ran back to Johnson's car. There was no evidence presented that Johnson and the passenger had planned to engage in any action upon arrival at the apartment or that the shooting was the natural and probable consequence of any agreed upon action.

III. CONCLUSION

For all of the foregoing reasons, the Defendant moves that this Court grant a new trial based on the erroneous jury instruction of accomplice liability and "the hand of one is the hand of all" charge.
