State Supreme Court orders new trial
The state Supreme Court has ordered a new trial for a man serving life in prison for murder, kidnapping and armed robbery in the death of a 75-year-old Dillon County woman, Damian Inman, was as found guilty in the 2009 slaying of Mary Alice Stutts. But the justices threw out the conviction because of an error in jury selection. When the defense tried to strike a juror, the prosecution objected saying the juror was being eliminated only because his race which isn't allowed. The judge upheld the objection and the defense could not strike the juror. In its appeal, the defense argued the man was struck because of his occupation, not race. The high court agreed and ordered a new trial. - AP

~~but the envelope was marked received 1-11-22.~~

also, appellant has submitted as evidence the envelope Clerk Carpenter sent to appellant on 12-3-21. as proof that Clerk Carpenter intentionally, left off her return address on the envelope that was received on 1-11-22. See both envelope's Therefore, with all the evidence submitted of corruption, and prejudice appellant move's the S.C. Court of appeals to grant appellant the relief sought a new trial, A.S.A.P, and appellant request that the South Carolina Court Administration, and request that action be taken against Clerk Carpenter A.S.A.P per requested by appellant, because that's why I'm's can not any relief because of crook's like Clerk Carpenter.

Note, Clerk Carpenter failed to issue appellant's filed subpoena to Soror #38011-32 which was prejudice in RE to appellant submitting corroborative evidences being Soror's testimony under oath in RE to her occupation in 2008.
