Ms. Staley,

I have previously filed the notice of intent to appeal on behalf of Mr. Jones and have coordinated with Appellate Defense to start their representation; however, I have a concern that Mr. Jones will be unable to submit his financial affidavit of indigency in time. I planned to hand deliver it to him at the prison; however, they have informed me that they are under COVID lockdown and are not even allowing attorney visits. I have mailed the affidavit to him but am concerned that it will not be signed, notarized, and returned to me in enough time to get it back to Appellate Defense by their deadline of 2/3/22.. They have suggested that I file an extension request with the Court of Appeals. Do you have any suggestions in this regard, and I can't imagine I'm the only one facing this problem. Thank you for your time.
