SC Court of Appeals

Jenny Abbott Kitchings, Clerk
1015 Sumter Street
Columbia, S. C. 29201

Dear Ms. Kitchings:

You told me to write you a letter so that you can request a copy of my book, "The Fall of a Nurse, What is wrong with Gerly," from the Circuit Court since this was the source of Commissioner Huffstetler's anger against me and why he retried the 1997 case against me instead of the intended case. The opposing attorneys as well as the worker's compensation commissioner have copies of the book or had access to it.

I turned in a copy to the Circuit Court along with some other documentation. The girl at the desk indicated on a document that the book was turned in. I have not been able to find the document if she gave it to me. I am still looking for it. I was waiting on a call from the girl at the Circuit Court office where all the case material is kept because she told me that she was going to call me yesterday. I have not heard anything from her as of yet. I do want you to order the book from her when she finds it. I don't know who has it or who removed it. It may still be with Judge Allison Lee.

I did put a letter in the mail Saturday, May 4, 2013, to Ms. Rema K. Gantt Thomas so that she can send me the transcript. I don't know when she will have it ready. I have not heard back from her yet. When she gets it ready and send it to me, I will bring the copy in.

I have to go out of town today for a possible job prospect. I will not be back until late this evening. I still want you to order the book because I did turn one in to the Circuit Court. The girl at the Court said that she does not know the number. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Gertrude Shiver
